Aritech panels can always be defaulted back to factory settings (which will mean 1278 works) but this of course means reprogramming all the zones again. This may not be a big job and of course will be cheaper than a call out. Each panel has a particular way to reset it and it involves removing the PCB mounted battery from the CMOS memory.

Hey, I'm interested to hear anything on this topic, namely I've got an Aritech CS350 alarm with low battery warning (for a few months). It's beeping every minute or so lately which is very annoying and I would like to try to change the battery myself if possible (before it goes mental again - it did about 2 months ago and I haven't used it since).
