In speaking of your friends, do not compare them, one with another. Speak of the merits of each one, but do not try to heighten the virtues of one by contrasting them with the vices of another. 16. Avoid, in conversation all subjects which can injure the absent. A gentleman will never calumniate or listen to calumny.

Etiquette expert

Professor Walter R.

Houghton wrote in his 1883 manual American Etiquette and Rules of Politeness that one should "never engage a person in private conversation in the presence of others, nor make any mysterious allusions which no one else understands."

That still holds true.
